LA VIE EN ROSE

PEARL ROMANCE

While on property, make sure to visit our pearl store, Pearl Romance, and discover the world's most beautiful Tahitian cultured pearls.

It all began in 1993 in Ahe (Tuamotu Atolls) on a pearl farm where manager, Thierry Bernicot, intensified his research in hopes of cultivating the world's most beautiful pearls. He gathered and harvested the oysters from spat collectors, used environment friendly cleaning methods, grafted and re-grafted all oysters, and even selected the colors.

Over a period of five years, I watched him make the first grafting cuts and participated in the selection process, already envisioning the end-product. And then one day, exceptional pearls emerged... our pearls.

After personally collecting the oysters, maturing them, and selecting the pearls, we moved on to the final step: promoting our pearls. Skillfully combining my creative sketches and drawings with Thierry's bold settings and piercings, we created our treasures of necklaces, rings, earrings, and pendants to showcase in Moorea.

🔍 SAY « I DO » IN THE HEART OF PARADISE

Traditional ceremonies

A day of festivities awaits our lovers.

While the bride and groom get dressed in a pareo, necklaces, crowns and a bouquet of flowers, a floral decoration is beautifully arranged on the beach. The bride and groom arrive on the beach either in a decorated Polynesian canoe or decorated golf cart. The dancers, singers and musicians welcome the bride and groom with music before the Tahitian priest presents the union to the Polynesian gods and blesses it by giving them traditional names. The wedding coordinator oversees all details for the planning of the ceremony to make it seamless, translates the blessing and issues a certificate. The newlyweds enjoy two exotic cocktails on the beach while the ceremony ends with songs and dances. Meanwhile, your bungalow is prepared with a bed of flowers for you to dive into the world of romance. This memorable day ends with a romantic dinner by the lagoon and Champagne.
